

Can I make my own changes to the BOM?

Last revised Saturday, 19 June 2010

The simple answer to this question is NO.

Once a shed is quoted it has a fixed BOM using a prescribed and tested method for detailing sheds. We are aware that everyone builds sheds slightly differently and everyone thinks that their method is the best. Having seen a variety of construction methods from different shed companies and erectors we feel we are using the most logical and cost effective way of detailing sheds.

The only ability to edit the BOM is to completely remove an item from an order list. For example if the BOM calls up 1 x 50m strap bracing and you already have a roll in the back of the ute, you can elect to remove this item completely from the order.

It is possible to save the BOM out to an Excel spreadsheet for you to manipulate as you see fit. This BOM is then external of ShedTech and any changes made to the spreadsheet have no impact on the BOM as calculated in ShedTech.
